SAYS IT ACTED LIKE A CHARM Coughs, colds, sore throat or bron-chial troubles which persist at this time of the year usually are of an ob-stinate character. That is all the more reason why a truly reliable remedy like Foley's Honey and Tar Compound should be used. Mrs. Margaret Smale, Hishop, Calif., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is a grand remedy; more than is claimed for it. I was suffering from a cold last week and used the medi-cine and it acted like a charm." Contains no opiates. Jo Anderson, drug-gist, Chattanooga, Tenn.—(Adv.)

FRIENDS SURPRISED BY CATES' WITHDRAWAL

The friends of Gen. Charies T. Cates, Jr., expressed surprise at his withdrawal from the race for United States senator, but stated they relled implicitly on the reasons Gen. Cates had set out for leaving the race. Leading friends of both Gen. Cates and Gov. Tom C. Bye stated Tuesday morning that the headquarters of Gen. Restaurateurs form another class somewhat dubious of the productivity of their work. According to the ruling of Foster V. Brown, chairman of city board No. 1, all waiters and owners of restaurants come under the new rule and must either change their occupation.

Tom C. Rye states that the headquarters of Gen. Cates, which for some time past has been in the Hamilton National bank building, would be converted into Rye headquarters and Will H. Frazier would continue in charge. However, this is only a rumor, but it seems to be based on general gossip by those who genon general gossip by those who gen-erally know things politically. Many friends of Gen. Cates insist that, now that he has withdrawn, Gov. However, it is also stated that the governor's race will play an that the governor's race will play an important part in the race for the senate for the reason that many are of the opinion a combination of Shields-Roberts will be the line-up. However, nothing definite is assured regarding this rumor. In the meantime the race between Senator Shields and Gov. Rye for the senate of the sen for the senate and the race between Judge A. H. Roberts and Austin Peay for governor will be watched with in-terest, especially in this county. It is stated that Judge Roberts will open up headquarters here at an early date.

A well-earned promotion has come to Capt. Kenneth Kern, former chief of the provost guard in Chattanooga. He is now a major, according to word received here from Spartanburg, S. C., where he was recently detailed as head of the military police.

Maj. Kern has a host of friends in Chattanooga and surrounding section, who will be gratified to learn of his promotion.

The work that he did in this city has been highly commended by ojcials and citizens. As a result of the efforts of the major and his men, this city has been made very much cleaner and safer for the khaki-clad men of Uncle Sam. They camped continuously on the trail of bootleggers and immoral women. In connection with their raids some of the most notorious traffickers in liquor who have ever infested the in liquor who have ever infested the city were brought into the toils of the law and punished by the courts. With the French Army in France, June 10.—Undiminished severity marks the fighting between Montdidier and Noyon. The situation tonight is rather satisfactory for the allies, whose obstinate resistance and frequent counter-attacks have caused great consternation to the Germans.

Enemy losses under the direct fire of the French artillery have been horof the French artillery have been nor-rible. Every time the allies counter attack they find the ground covered with German dead. Throughout the day the enemy threw his greatest pres-sure toward the center of the allied line in an effort to gain as much ground as possible southward in the direction of Compegne.

Under the powerful push of the con-tinually reinforced enemy columns the allies were forced to give way a little but they fought tenaciously for every Occurred Epic Struggle.

An epic struggle occurred in the vicinity of Piemont, where the small gar-rison of dismounted cavalrymen possibly may still hold out.

French soldiers who managed to get through the German lines late yesterday declared that before they left the Germans had delivered terrific assaults all of which have been repulsed with heavy losses for the enemy.

Several | small villages, including
Mery, Belloy and St. Maure, changed ownership a number of times but this evening were in German hands. At no moment is it positive to say that this or that place is occupied by the enemy or the allies such is the terrific nature of the conflict. Ebbs and flows occur eyerywhere. On the Belloy plateau fighting went on continuously in considerable number. The French artillery fire is most violent and very destructive when turned against at-

The Germans apparently are trying to increase the rapidity of their advance by entirely ignoring the losses they sustain, the object being to acquire possession of as much territory as possible before the allies are able to stabilize the front. Each division seemed to have received orders to go ahead heedless of what the others are accomplishing.

Allied Gunners Accurate

While attempting to do this the lermans are coming under the fire of the allied batteries and groups of ma-chine guns which possess the accurate ranges of all points.

This fierce opposition offered by the allied troops, appears to have disconcerted the German high command, which expected to be able to reduce the allied salient around Noyon much more

The enemy guns were very throughout yesterday and last night but were well countered by the allied artillery. In addition, the wind artillery. In addition, the wind changed its direction and tens of thousands of poison gas shells fired by the Germans did more damage to themselves than to the allies.

Germans Gain Foothold in Marqueglise, Yet French Lines Are Holding Firm.

(By Ernest P. Orr, International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, June 11.—The fourth German offensive, which began on Sunday along a 21-mile front between Noyan and Montdidier, is proving a second Although the Germans have been

Although the Germans have been able to occupy the villages of Mery, Belloy and St. Maur and gain a footing in Marqueglise, the French lines are holding firm.

The German effort to advance along the railways paralleling the Oise river in the direction of Complegne and Paris have cost the Teutons appalling losses.

The fighting field is piled high with orpses and the trenches are level with the ground with corpses.

The German attacks have developed into a converging movement, with the chief assaults delivered along two railway lines. One of these lines run southeasterly direction from m a southeasterly direction from Montdidier through Estrees and Arsy; the other follows the Olse river through Ribecourt and Compiegne, Both lead to Paris,

While the Germans have exerted tremendous pressure all along the front, throwing huge masses of fresh troops into the combat, their only appreciable gains have been upon the All accounts emphasize two features of the new action: First—the brilliant and gallant re-sistance of the French, who are faced y overwhelming numbers. Second—The enormous losses of the Terrific fighting has been raging along the northern bank of a small, sluggish stream known as the Matz. There the Germans have been making tremendous efforts to break into the village of Elincourt, having reached the outskirts. . The German troops have become battle weary and their attacks are slackening in strength. Prisoners cap-tured by the French were hungry and exhausted.

On the right and left wings of the battle front the Germans have been attempting debouching movements with no success. They tried to infil-trate French positions from Thiescourt wood on the right, but were thrown back to their original positions with heavy losses. On the left flank they with no better success. The fighting front is now about nine miles from Compiegne, their chief local objective.

Correspondents at the front describe the slaughter of the German troops as they advanced in close formation as a massacre. Already at least five of the original seventeen divisions that were into the fight have been slaughtered.

However, the German crown prince seems to be well supplied with re-serves, and the end of the new battle is not yet in sight. The Germans have not attempted to widen the new fighting zone.

The Germans owe their slight advance to the many tanks they used, says Marcel Hutin, famous French military expert. They were not spotted at first by the French artillery. The Germans paid dearly for their advance. Cuissiers cut off from their main force beat back fourteen attacks, sweeping down on the picked German storming

DIVISION AFTER DIVISION THROWN IN MELTING POT

As Huns Grow Desperate to Reach Paris-Peril Lies in Human Wastage.

Paris. June 11.—All the advices from the battlefield show that the enemy is putting forth every possible effort in his design to push toward Paris, throwing division after division into the melting pot. So far he has sucthe melting pot. So far he has succeeded in two days of fighting in carrying forward his line at the maximum point of advance, at Vignemont, a distance of six miles. In this he has been materially aided by a considerable number of tanks, which the French artillery was at first unable to demolish.

The enemy further succeeded in widening the point of his wedge by bringing up two divisions of the guards and two Bavarian divisions borrowed from the army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht. These troops captured the villages of Mery. St. Maure and Belloy, giving him a plateau behind which he can mass troops partly screened from observation by partly screened from observation by the French.

Peril in Human Wastage.

If the danger to the French is in losing ground that is valuable as room in which they maneuver, the German peril lies in the human wastage that is in progress. The German army as a whole has been engaged for the last three months with slight facilities for renewal. The balance seems to be in favor of the French.

The resistance that is being offered by the French forces in this battle has not been surpassed for determination during the whole war. Thus one litthe group of dismounted cuirassiers at Plemont were almost surrounded it beat off fourteen German attacks and contributed largely to the checking of the German advance.

In a summary of the Paris newspapers comment on the battle the Havas agency refers to the small progress made by the Germans yesterday in comparison with the price they had to
